The information on minority admission policies, enrollment and graduates in United States dental schools contained in this report was gathered in the 1983 Annual Survey of Dental Educational Institutions. The Annual Survey is conducted by the Council on Dental Education of the American Dental Association as part of the accreditation process for dental schools. All United States dental schools participate in the survey. Included in this report is information on total minority enrollment, minority enrollment by race, minority graduates, minority recruitment procedures in each dental school; and administrators to consult at each dental school concerning minority information and recruitment.

Table 1 lists the total minority enrollment both for the first year and the entire four years of the undergraduate dental education report. The table indicates that there were 873 first-year minority students (16.5%) enrolled for the 1983-84 academic year. This is a decrease of 6 students from last year's first-year enrollment. There was also a total of 3,024 minority students enrolled in all four years (14.1% of the total enrollment). There was no change from last year in total first through 4th-year enrollment.

Tables 2 to 5 report the minority enrollment by race for each of the four years. In the freshman undergraduate class there were 155 Black men and 121 Black women, for a total of 276 Blacks or 5.3% of the first-year class. There were 155 Hispanic men and 57 Hispanic women, for a total of 172 Hispanics or 3.3% of the first-year class. There were 16 American Indian men and 3 American Indian women, for a total of 19 American Indians or 0.4% of the first-year class. There were 267 Asian men and 139 Asian women, for a total of 406 or 7.8% of the first-year class. Precentages of females in every minority, except American Indians which did not change, have increased over last year's first-year enrollment: Black enrollment is up from 5.2% of total enrollment in 1982 to 5.3% in 1983; Hispanic up from 3.1% to 3.3%; and Asian enrollment up from 6.4% to 7.8% this year.

Table 6 reports the total minority enrollment by race for each dental school in the United States. In the 1983-84 academic year there were 1,000 Black, 603 Hispanic, 64 American Indian, 1,357 Asian minority students enrolled. There has been little change in the total minority enrollment by race from last year; Black enrollment up .1%; Hispanic enrollment dropped .1%; American Indian enrollment stayed the same at .3%; Asian enrollment rose .4%.

Table 7 reports the number of minority graduates by race for each dental school in the United States in 1983. There were 127 Black men and 73 Black women, for a total of 200 Blacks: 109 Hispanic men and 35 Hispanic women, for a total of 144 Hispanics; 9 American Indian men and 3 American Indian women, for a total of 12 American Indians; and 163 Asian men and 52 Asian women, for a total of 215 Asians. This represents an increase of 34 Hispanic graduates, and a decrease of 27 Black and 50 Asian graduates. There were 571 minority graduates in 1983 10.0% of all graduates for the year. This represents a decrease of 1.6% in minority representation over the 1982 graduating class.

Table 8 lists the minority recruitment activities carried on at each dental school in the United States. A brief summary of activities and programs found at each school is narrated. As can be seen from an examination of the table, there is a wide variety of programs designed for minority students. Table 9 lists the administrators to consult about minority recruitment, admission and retention programs at each dental school in the United States.

In conclusion it should be noted that there is an inherent difficulty in gathering information on minorities. The question always arises as to the proper choice of ethnic categories to be used. The Council on Dental Education of the American Dental Association has adopted the categories requested by the Department of Health Resources Administration of the Federal Government. Hispanic students at the University of Puerto Rico are not, however, considered to form a minority category.

MINORITY RECRUITMENT IN DENTAL SCHOOLS

UNIVERSITY OF ALABAMA

Minority students are invited to an orientation program for the two weeks prior to beginning the first year classes. Per diem support is available to help defray the cost of living during this period. This program gives the students sufficient time to secure living quarters and to adjust socially and psychologically to their new environment. Special courses are offered to prepare the students for the regular courses, to identify any weaknesses in learning skills, and to assist in the development of effective study habits. During their tenure as dental students, each is assigned to a faculty advisor and an upper -class student advisor. This provides the opportunity of identifying problems (academic or otherwise) that a student might encounter so that steps can be taken to make the necessary adjustments. Where indicated, arrangements will be made to provide tutorial assistance. Close contact is maintained between health professions advisors at the traditionally Black colleges and members of our Admissions Committee. We maintain an active program to identify students who present the potential of meeting dental school entrance requirements. Representatives of the dental school usually visit the traditionally Black colleges at least once each year to talk with potential students, and an active line of communication is maintained with the appropriate undergraduate school faculty members throughout the year. Application fees are not waived and an interview is required.

WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY

Our curriculum has been structured to accommodate reasonable differences in progress rates of dental students, particularly in the motor skill aspects of their training. This opportunity offers some advantage to the student whose predental preparation may have been minimal or marginal and enhances his or her chances of success for completion of the program. During the past two years the WVU Medical Center has sponsored an annual Health Sciences Seminar for middle school children of West Virginia. This is a two-day program directed primarily toward encouraging minorities to examine health career possibilities. We have an active recruitment committee, working in our own state, which is alert and sensitive to minority dental manpower needs. In a deliberate response to the problems associated with the recruitment and retention of minority dental students, we frequently interview prospective dental school applicants attending health career programs seminars held at various schools and locations. While we have not been as seccessful in our recruitment results as we would have liked in these instances, it is felt our school as well as these students interviewed have benefited from the effort. Application fees are waived and an interview is required.

DENTAL SCHOOL TREND ANALYSIS
INTRODUCTION

This report, DENTAL EDUCATION TREND ANALYSIS, is a supplement to the ANNUAL REPORT, DENTAL EDUCATION. The purpose of this report is to provide educators with a comprehensive statistical summary of trends in applications to and enrollment in predoctoral dental education programs in the United States. Also, this report includes tables containing statistics which pertain to advanced specialty education, level of pre-dental education and dental licensure results. The trends which are of particular interest to the educators and administrators alike are reported in the following 18 tables. Data are provided for each dental school that is currently accredited by the Commission on Dental Accreditation. National totals and averages are also included where applicable. While the tables are self explanatory and easy to interpret, some of the trends that may interest the readers are highlighted in these pages.

As shown in Table 1, the number of applications to dental schools declined 8.5% from 41,466 in 1982 to 37,949 in 1983. This is the seventh consecutive year that a decline is reported. As one would expect, the decline in the number of applications to the dental schools only reflects the decline in the number of applicants.

Indeed, the number of applicants to dental schools decreased by 7.7% from 7,724 to 7,128*, while the applications to applicant ratio remains approximately 5:1.

Table 2 indicates that first-year enrollment (FYE) dropped 4.1% from 5,498 in 1982 to 5,274 in 1983. The table below displays the last eight years' information on the number of applications, number of applicants, number of first-year enrollment and the ratio of number of applicants to first-year enrollment. Since 1976, due to the shrinking of the applicants pool, the applicants to FYE ratio had dropped from 2.49 in 1976 to 1.35 in 1983.

Year	# of Applications	# of Applicants	# of First-Year Enrollment	Ratio of # of Applicants/ 1st Yr. Enrollment
1976	86,081	14,807	5,935	2.49
1977	81,765	12,837	5,954	2.16
1978	66,585	10,766	6,301	1.71
1979	58,715	10,000	6,132	1.63
1980	52,218	9,601	6,030	1.59
1981	46,894	8,852	5,855	1.51
1982	41,466	7,724	5,498	1.40
1983	37,949	7,128	5,274	1.35

Tables 10 through 15 contain data on women and minority enrollment and graduates. From Table 11, one can observe that first-year enrollment of women in dental schools increased 7.4% from 1,223 in 1982 to 1,313 in 1983. As for minority enrollment in the first-year class, Table 13 indicates that minority enrollment remains practically the same as last year (879 in 1982 and 873 in 1983).

Table 18 contains licensure examination information for selected years from 1950 to 1982. The licensure results were obtained from the State Board of Dental Examiners, the Northeast Regional Board, the Central Regional Dental TEsting Service, the Southern Regional Testing Association and the Western Regional Examining Board. Please note that because of the manner in which the data were collected and reported, those states participating in regional examinations will have zero failure rate.

DENTAL SCHOOL
TREND ANALYSIS

Addendum:

It is important to note that information for 1983 in Table 6, "Number and Percent of Non-Resident Students In the First Year Class, 1975-83" represents the residence of applicants approximately one year before matriculation into dental school. All previous years represent the residence of freshman dental students.

Dental School Administrators

1983/84

SUPPLEMENT 1
TO THE
ANNUAL REPORT 1983/84
DENTAL EDUCATION

This list, Dental School Administrators, has been compiled from the data gathered in the Annual Survey of Dental Educational Institutions. The survey questionnaires were completed by the dental schools at the beginning of the 1983-84 academic year.

The dental schools, and their corresponding administrators, are listed in alphabetical order by state. This year the address of the dental school has been included.

It is hoped that this information will prove to be helpful in identifying those persons who hold the listed administrative positions in each dental.

Financial Report Fiscal Year Ending June 30, 1983

1983/84

SUPPLEMENT 4
TO THE
ANNUAL REPORT 1983/84
DENTAL EDUCATION

FINANCIAL REPORT FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1983

The Annual Report on Dental Education Finances is a summary of the information contained in the seventeenth Annual Survey of Dental Educational Institutions. It constitutes a report of the financing of all 60 U.S. dental schools. The contents of the survey represent a collective action of the Council on Dental Education of the American Dental Association and the American Association of Dental Schools.

Organization of the Report

Table 1, Summary of Revenues, provides a statement of income for all major sources of income identified in the survey.

Table 2, Summary of Expenditures, provides a statement of expense for those major expense categories separately identified in the survey.

Table 3 to 16, Current Fund Revenues and Expenditures by Size and Control, provide more detailed data for selected categories of income and expense. Each display format includes the following data: 1) highest figures reported for the category; 2) lowest figure reported for the category; 3) mean for the category (average for all schools with non-zero entries in the category).

NOTE: Extreme differences between the high and low figures can reflect differences in accounting procedures among the institutions as well as real differences in income or expense.

Dental Student Attrition

1982/83

SUPPLEMENT 5
TO THE
ANNUAL REPORT 1983/84
DENTAL EDUCATION

DENTAL STUDENT ATTRITION

Each year the Division of Educational Measurements gathers student attrition data from the 60 U.S. dental schools by means of the Survey of Predoctoral Dental Educational Institutions as well as through withdrawal forms submitted for each of the students who withdraw from school. Students who repeat an academic year and students on temporary leave of absence are not included in these data. Between 1973 and 1979, the attrition rate after one full year of dental education was approximately 3.5% (see table 1). However, during the past three years the rate of attrition for the dental school freshmen has begun to climb, 4.30% in 1980-81, 4.95% in 1981-82 and 5.6% in 1982-83. During 1982-83, 155 sophomores (2.8% of the sophomore class) withdrew, while 79 withdrew from the junior class (1.4%) and 22 from the final year of dental education (0.4%). These 562 students amount to 2.53% of the total 1982-83 dental school enrollment.

Comparing the number of 1982-83 withdrawals with the number of students in their individual freshman classes permits a conclusion that an attrition rate of approximately 10 percent can be expected of a class of students for the four years of dental education. Although this is less than the 11.6% four year attrition rate of the 1966 entering class, this also represents a marked increase since 1979 (6.5%).

Personal Reasons for Withdrawal

Personal reasons for withdrawal have, in recent years, outnumbered academic reasons (see Table 2), while a change of career objective remains the most frequently reported personal reason for withdrawal from dental school (see Table 3). These students were in good academic standing and had no reported difficulty with coursework, but they withdrew to follow a career other than dentistry. During the 1982-83 year, 14 students left dental school explicitly to enter a medical school and 38 students left a particular dental school to transfer to another dental school. Eighteen of these 38 students were freshmen. Financial reasons were given for the withdrawal of only 4 freshmen, one sophomore, one junior and one senior.

ACADEMIC REASONS

In annual studies of dental freshman attrition, a comparison between the DAT scores of students withdrawing because of academic problems and the DAT scores of all freshmen has been done. Since 1975, when this analysis was initiated, the studies indicated that the percentage of these students with below average DAT scores was significantly greater than the percentage of all freshmen with below average DAT scores. In this year's analysis, rather than percentages, the mean DAT scores are recorded. Again, there is a significant difference in the DAT scores of those who withdraw because of scholastic difficulty and the rest of the freshmen. The mean DAT Academic Average of those withdrawing for personal reasons was 4.57 (almost indentical to the mean for all freshmen, 4.59), those withdrawing because of problems in academics, however, have a significantly lower mean DAT Academic Average, 3.46. This difference is in evidence in the technic areas also. The mean Perceptual Ability Test score for those withdrawing for personal reasons was 4.51; for those withdrawing because of problems in technic courses, 3.68; all freshmen, 4.75. Figures 1 and 2 graphically portray these differences. Freshmen who withdraw because of problems in academic or technic coursework have, on the average, significantly lower DAT scores than other first-year students.

MINORITY ATTRITION

In 1982 women constituted 22.2% of the entering class in U.S. dental school and 20.0% of the entire dental enrollment. Women, however, made up 27.8% of the first year withdrawals and 24.2% of the withdrawals from all four years. As can be seen from Table 4, the attrition rate for women in the first-year class is slightly higher than for men.

An analysis of student attrition by ethnic minority categories indicates that Black and Hispanic students withdraw at a greater rate than White or Asian students. As Tables 5 and 6 indicate, Black students account for a disproportionately large percentage of withdrawals as compared to their percentage of enrollment. In 1981-82 Blacks made up 5.16% of the freshman class but 12.9% of freshman attrition. In 1982-83 it was similar: 12.8% of attrition and 5.3% of enrollment. Hispanics fared similarly: in 1981-82, Hispanics made up 3.16% of dental freshmen but 7.26% of freshman withdrawals; in 1982-83, 3.44% of enrollment and 6.06% of attrition.

Black	8	3.57	23	10.27
Hispanic	4	1.79	11	4.91
White	98	43.75	72	32.14

Table 7 indicates that the greatest proportion of the 1982-83 freshman withdrawals of Blacks and Hispanics were for scholastic reasons related to course work. This is not the case for all withdrawals in general.

CONCLUSION

In summary, the freshman attrition rate which had been consistently held to approximately three and one half precent during the 1970's has increased to 5.6% in 1982-83. The national dental school entering class can be expected to experience approximately a 10% attrition rate by the time of graduation if one takes the 1982-83 rate of attrition as a base. The students withdrawing for personal, non-academic reasons continue to out-number those withdrawing because of academic problems. Freshmen withdrew from school more often because of academic problems in didactic courses than in technic courses, both areas of difficulty having a significant relationship to Dental Admission Test scores. Finally, the attrition rate for women, is slightly higher than for men in the first year classes, and also higher for Blacks and Hispanics than for all other freshmen.

This report was compiled from data collected in the 1983-84 Survey of Predoctoral Dental Educational Institutions. The Survey is conducted by the Commission on Dental Accreditation as part of the requirements for accreditation. It is participated in by all dental schools in the United States. Information being reported in this supplement included resident and non-resident tuition, general fees, other fixed costs such as instruments, textbooks and health service.

Several changes have been made in the report this year. The Table of Summary Statistics was not included; instead the adjusted means and standard deviations are presented in each table. In addition the division of schools by type of financial support has been increased to three subdivisions: Public, Private and State-Related.

Comparison of these subdivisions has revealed several statistically significant* differences in student costs. An example is the difference in fee structures between the three types of institutions. State-related schools' health service costs were significantly lower mandatory fees than both Public and Private schools. By contrast State-related schools had significantly higher instrument costs than either Public or Private schools. It should be noted that all statistical tests were performed using adjusted statistics. Thus they reflect actual monies paid by the dental students.

* Student's T-test ($P \leq .05$)

Table 15 presents trend data on resident and non-resident tuition and fees covering the period 1979-80 to 1983-84. This table is included to provide an easy and ready reference for the readers.

CORRECTION

FINANCIAL REPORT FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1983

The Annual Report on Dental Education Finances is a summary of the information contained in the seventeenth Annual Survey of Dental Educational Institutions. It constitutes a report of the financing of all 60 U.S. dental schools. The contents of the survey represent a collective action of the Council on Dental Education of the American Dental Association and the American Association of Dental Schools.

Organization of the Report

Table 1, Summary of Revenues, provides a statement of income for all major sources of income identified in the survey.

Table 2, Summary of Expenditures, provides a statement of expense for those major expense categories separately identified in the survey.

Table 3 to 16, Current Fund Revenues and Expenditures by Size and Control, provide more detailed data for selected categories of income and expense. Each display format includes the following data: 1) highest figures reported for the category; 2) lowest figure reported for the category; 3) mean for the category (average for all schools with non-zero entries in the category).

NOTE: Extreme differences between the high and low figures can reflect differences in accounting procedures among the institutions as well as real differences in income or expense.
